VA Benefits – Disability Compensation

Providing tax-free benefits for Veterans with a service-connected disability

Disability Compensation & Typical Beneficiary

What is it?

Service-connected disability compensation is a tax-free benefit paid to Veterans for a disability that arose during service, was worsened or aggravated by service, or is presumed by VA to be related to military service.

Who is it for?

A typical beneficiary for disability compensation is a Servicemember or Veteran who became injured physically during service or has psychological issues related to service.

Eligibility Requirements for Disability Compensation

Eligibility Requirements

- Service-connected disability
- Other than dishonorable discharge

Factors That Determine the Benefit Amount

- Degree of disability
- Number of dependents
- Loss or loss of use of specific organs or extremities

PRESUMPTIVE DISABILITY BENEFITS

VA presumes that some disabilities are due to military service. A Servicemember or Veteran may be eligible to receive disability benefits if he or she has a qualifying disability related to certain conditions of service such as exposure to Agent Orange or radiation, or being a former prisoner of war.

INDIVIDUAL UNEMPLOYABILITY is payable if a Veteran is unable to work as a result of his or her service-connected disabilities.

Disability Compensation Application Tips

- The best way to apply for disability compensation and track a claim is by obtaining an eBenefits account online at www.eBenefits.va.gov
- The applicant should have access to the following information to apply:
 - Discharge or separation papers (DD214 or equivalent), AND
 - Medical evidence (doctor and hospital reports), AND
 - Dependency records (marriage and children's birth certificates)

TIP: Medical Evidence

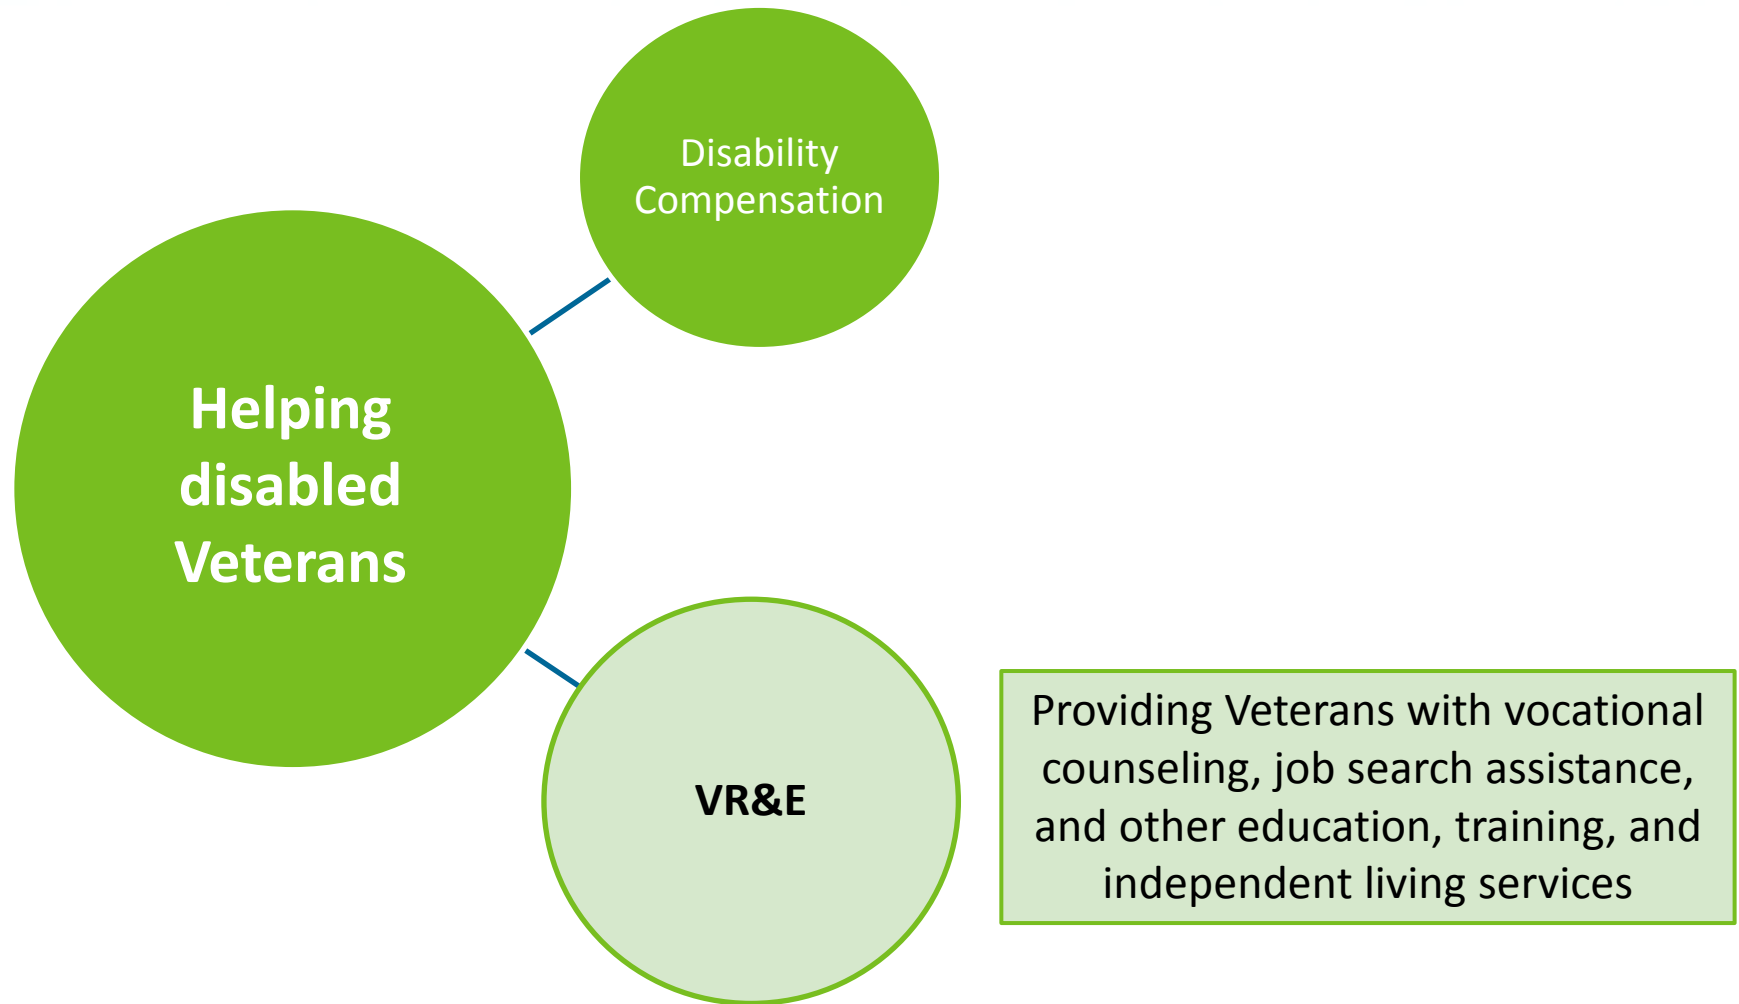

Submitting all of the medical evidence that supports a claim for disability benefits (such as treatment records, or test results) at the time of application can speed up the VBA claims process.

Other programs for Veterans with a Service-Connected Disability

- Clothing Allowance – Annual payments for Veterans who have a service-connected condition for which they use prosthetic or orthopedic appliances, or for a skin condition which requires prescribed medication that irreparably damages the Veteran's outer garments
- Automobile Allowance – A one-time allowance to purchase a new or used car to accommodate a service-connected disability
- Specially Adapted Housing (SAH) Grant Program/Special Housing Adaptation (SHA) Grant Program – helps those with service-connected disabilities purchase, construct, or modify a home to accommodate the disability
- Veterans Mortgage Life Insurance (VMLI) – Mortgage protection insurance that can help a disabled Veteran's family by paying off the home mortgage in the event of the Veteran's death
- Service-Disabled Veterans' Insurance (S-DVI) – Life insurance benefit for Veterans with service-connected disabilities but are otherwise in good health
- Special Monthly Compensation – An additional amount payable for Servicemembers and Veterans with certain severe disabilities that involve loss of use of organs, confine the applicant to his or her residence, or require aid and attendance

VA Benefits – Vocational Rehabilitation & Employment (VR&E)

VR&E and Typical Beneficiary

What is it?

The VR&E program assists Veterans with service-connected disabilities to prepare for, obtain, and maintain suitable employment. Career counseling benefits are also available to recently separated Servicemembers and to those using VA education benefits.

Who is it for?

VR&E services are for Veterans with service-connected illnesses and injuries who:

- May not be able to work right now and need rehabilitation services
- Need specialized training and/or education
- Need flexible work arrangements
- Need help finding employment soon after separation
- Need rehabilitation to live more independently

Eligibility Requirements for VR&E

Generally, eligibility for VR&E requires that the applicant have a service-connected disability rating from VA of at least 10%, or 20% prior to discharge from the military. There are a couple of common exceptions:

- Severely ill or injured Veterans who have been referred to a military Physical Evaluation Board or are participating in the Department of Defense/VA Integrated Disability Evaluation System
- Servicemembers or Veterans participating in a VA education program
- Servicemembers and Veterans who have recently separated from the military

If a Vocational Rehabilitation Counselor (VRC) determines that you have a Serious Employment Handicap (SEH), then you may be entitled to VR&E services even if you have passed the 12-year period of basic eligibility or your rating is less than 20%. A SEH is a disability that significantly impairs a Veteran's ability to prepare for, obtain, or retain employment consistent with his or her abilities, aptitudes, and interests.

VR&E Application Tips

- The best way to apply for VR&E is by obtaining an eBenefits account online at www.eBenefits.va.gov
- In general, Veterans must use all VR&E services within a 12-year timeframe
- After the Veteran applies and VA determines that he or she is eligible to receive VR&E benefits, VA will schedule a meeting between the Veteran and a Vocational Rehabilitation Counselor (VRC) to conduct an assessment
- If a Serious Employment Handicap (SEH) is found, the Veteran's basic period of eligibility for VR&E services may be extended
- Veterans without a Serious Employment Handicap can receive career counseling services and help in locating other resources to address rehabilitation and employment needs

VR&E Services After Evaluation

After the Veteran has been assessed, he or she will work with a VRC to determine which of the following options is the right fit:

Track	Goals of Rehabilitation Plan
Reemployment	Consultation with the employer, job accommodations, job modification, and case management; coordination and referral for services, such as work adjustment services
Rapid Access to Employment	Preparation to find employment including résumé development and job search assistance
Self-Employment	Services to help develop and implement a business plan including analysis of business concept, training in operating small businesses, and marketing and financial assistance
Employment Through Long-Term Services	Training and education, including On-the-Job Training (OJT), internships, and higher education
Independent Living Services	Assistive technology, independent living skills training, and connection to community-based support services

VA Benefits – Home Loan Guaranty

Helping Servicemembers and Veterans purchase, adapt, or retain a home

Home Loan Guaranty & Typical Beneficiary

What is it?

VA's home loan program helps Servicemembers and Veterans to purchase, build, or adapt a home. VA loans have favorable terms, including no down payment or mortgage insurance premiums.

Who is it for?

Home loan programs are available to Active Duty, National Guard, and Reserve Servicemembers and Veterans, and in some cases, their families. Disabled Veterans may also be eligible for certain grants to help accommodate a service-connected disability.

Eligibility Requirements for Home Loan Guaranty

- The applicant must qualify for the loan from the lender
- Service requirements vary based on whether the applicant served during wartime or peacetime:
 - Veterans generally have to serve 90 total days or 181 continuous days, depending on the period to qualify
 - Active Duty Servicemembers generally have to serve 90 continuous days to qualify
 - National Guard and Reserve members generally have to have 90 days of active service, six years in the Selected Reserve or National Guard, or are discharged because of a service-connected disability
 - VBA's website provides further information to learn about wartime and peacetime periods

The applicant must present a Certificate of Eligibility (COE) from VA that verifies his or her spouse's military service to the lender to qualify for a VA-backed loan. The easiest way to obtain a COE is through eBenefits at www.eBenefits.va.gov.

Home Loan Guaranty Application Tips

- Before applying for home loan benefits, the applicant needs to obtain a Certificate of Eligibility (COE). The easiest way is by setting up an eBenefits account online at www.eBenefits.va.gov
- After obtaining the COE, the applicant can apply for a VA-guaranteed loan through any mortgage lender that participates in the VA Home Loan Guaranty Program
- There are no loan limits, but VA's guaranty to the lender is capped, which may affect the amount a lender will lend the applicant
- Veterans generally have to pay a legislatively mandated funding fee which varies based on the loan type

Related Home Loan Guaranty Programs

- Native American Direct Loan (NADL) Program – helps eligible Native American Veterans finance the purchase, construction, or improvement of homes on Federal Trust Land, or reduce the interest rate on a VA loan
